

SunRiseYouth Arts Collective

Commitment From Youth Performers

At SunRiseYouth, we believe that the power of expression, combined with dedication to your art, is key to building confidence. Our events are not competitions, they are celebrations of courage, community, and connection with other young creative talents.

We ask all participating youth to take their role seriously, not for grades or rankings, but because your time, talent, and voice matter. Practicing helps you feel proud and prepared and that's what building confidence is all about!

Practice Commitment

I will commit to practicing my talent (music, art, poetry, or other performance) at least: 30 minutes, 4 days a week, leading up to the performance.

This time is not about perfection; it's about doing your best and being prepared to share your passion with your community to the best of your ability.

Note to Youth:

We are proud of you, just for stepping up to try. No matter your experience level, this is a safe space to grow, share, and shine. Let's create something amazing together!